Trump's Presidency after the Mid-term Elections: What Consequences for the Multilateral System?

Speaker: Jeffrey Laurenti , UN Association of the USA

Jeffrey Laurenti has served as executive director of policy studies at the United Nations Association of the United States (UNA-USA) and as senior fellow and director of foreign policy programs at The Century Foundation. He directed international task forces on peace-making in Afghanistan and on UNESCO, and was deputy director of the United Nations Foundation's United Nations and Global Security initiative that supported Kofi Annan's high-level panel on threats, challenges, and change. He has written on multilateral capacities for conflict resolution, human rights protection, environment, and international organization financing, and advised Democratic presidential campaigns on multilateral issues. Laurenti has served as public member of a State Department promotion board and is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. He earned his A.B. (Bachelor of Arts degree) at Harvard College, magna cum laude, and his M.P.A. at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.
