

ONLINE
Symposium

The World Experienced COVID-19 Pandemic and Human Security

Program

Part 1 Report from Our Research Units

Peacebuilding/ Daisaku Higashi

(Professor, Center for Global Education and Discovery)

Yasuhiro Ueki (Professor, Graduate School of Global Studies)

Environment/ Tetsuya Horie (Associate Professor, Faculty of Economics)

(Associate Professor, Faculty of Economics)

Poverty/ Masamitsu Kurata

(Associate Professor, Faculty of Economics)

Immigrants and Refugees/ Taro Komatsu (Professor, Faculty of Human Sciences)

(Professor, Faculty of Human Sciences)

Ghalwinji-Yamamoto Kaoru

(Sophia Institute for Human Security)

Health Care/ Takuya Hasebe

(Associate Professor, Faculty of Liberal Arts)

Part 2 Panel Discussion

Experience of COVID-19 pandemic has been revealing many issues to be solved in the globalized world of today. In this symposium, we share information about what problems happen in research fields of our five research units in the Sophia Institute for Human Security: poverty, environment, health care, immigrants and refugees, and peacebuilding. Then we discuss the meanings of those experiences for human security in the future.

2020.11.07 SAT 13:00
~16:00

Open to All

Language: Japanese with simultaneous English interpretation

Organizer: Sophia Institute for Human Security.

Please register for the symposium through

SOPHIA OPEN RESEARCH
WEEKS 2020 11.6 FRI - 23 MON SOPHIA UNIVERSITY

